

Wapsie Valley FFA Holds Annual Fruit Sales

By Natalie Risse, Chapter Reporter

The Wapsie Valley FFA chapter has officially started its annual fruit sales fundraiser. It is one of the chapter's biggest events to raise money for the chapter. This year, there are many options available. In addition to an assortment of fruit, there is meat, cheese, Casey's pizza cards, cookie dough, and candy for sale as well. There is a large variety of each category to choose from. This year, the chapter goal is to sell $30,000 dollars worth of fruit, and the chapter will get to keep a percentage of this money.

Every agriculture education student at Wapsie Valley is participating. If any member of the community would like to purchase any fruit or other items from the fundraiser, any of the agriculture students can sell. Orders can also be placed by calling the Wapsie Valley Agriculture Department at 319-638-6711 extension 22. The money raised from the fruit sales fundraiser is critical in funding chapter activities such as trips to state and national conventions, community service projects, and participating in events and competitions on every level of FFA. The Wapsie Valley FFA chapter would like to thank the community for the great support it provides to the members.
